NAIFA | Future Financial Professionals

Optional Extra Credit Assignment

Faculty members may adapt this assignment to their institution's policies and course requirements. NAIFA should not prescribe the amount of academic credit awarded.

Suggested Assignment Language

Students may earn optional extra credit by attending NAIFA's Future Financial Professionals virtual program on Wednesday, November 18, 2026, from 3:00–4:30 p.m. Eastern and submitting a brief reflection. The program provides a behind-the-scenes look at careers in insurance and financial services through conversations with working professionals.

Suggested Reflection Questions

1. What career path, role, or professional experience discussed during the program was most interesting to you, and why?
2. What skill, habit, or characteristic did the presenters identify as important to success?
3. What assumption about financial-services careers changed or became more nuanced after the program?
4. What is one next step you could take to learn more about a career that interested you?

Suggested Submission

Submit a 250–500-word reflection responding to at least two questions above. Include your name, course, and the date you attended the program.

As previously noted, NAIFA will provide an emailed certificate to students who complete the program, as well as an attendance roster to the faculty representatives as soon as practical after the event.
