NAIFA | Future Financial Professionals

Ready-to-Send Faculty Emails

Faculty members may send these messages as written or personalize the opening sentence for their class, department, or student organization.

Initial Student Invitation

Subject: Explore Careers in Financial Services at a Free Virtual Event

Preview text: Hear directly from professionals and discover career paths you may not have considered.

Students,

If you are interested in business, finance, insurance, entrepreneurship, sales, consulting, or helping people make important financial decisions, I encourage you to explore NAIFA's Future Financial Professionals program.

This free, live, 90-minute virtual experience will give you a behind-the-scenes look at the financial-services profession. You will hear directly from accomplished insurance and financial professionals, explore different career paths, learn what it takes to succeed, and have the opportunity to ask questions in real time.

The program will be held Wednesday, November 18, 2026, from 3:00–4:30 p.m. Eastern. You do not need previous industry experience or a firm career plan to participate.

Register here: https://naifa.org/future

Your career is still being written. This is an opportunity to discover possibilities you may not have considered.

One-Week Reminder

Subject: One Week Until Future Financial Professionals

Preview text: Reserve your place for this free financial-services career exploration experience.

Students,

NAIFA's Future Financial Professionals program is one week away. If you are curious about careers in insurance, financial advising, financial planning, or related fields, this free virtual experience will help you understand the possibilities and hear directly from people doing the work.

Join the program Wednesday, November 18, from 3:00–4:30 p.m. Eastern.

Register here: https://naifa.org/future

Final Reminder

Subject: Last Call to Explore Careers in Financial Services

Preview text: Future Financial Professionals begins soon. Registration is free.

Students,

There is still time to register for NAIFA's Future Financial Professionals program on Wednesday, November 18, from 3:00–4:30 p.m. Eastern.

Spend 90 minutes hearing from successful professionals, exploring career options across financial services, and asking the questions that can help you make a more informed career decision.

Register here: https://naifa.org/future

Short Faculty-to-Student Message

I thought this free career exploration program might be relevant to you. Future Financial Professionals provides a behind-the-scenes look at careers in insurance and financial services, along with direct access to professionals working in the field. The next virtual session is November 18 from 3:00–4:30 p.m. Eastern. Learn more and register: https://naifa.org/future